

In accordance with Texas Education Agency guidelines for the 2020-2021 school year, Mount Vernon ISD families will choose between the two instruction options described below for each child in the household. The remote learning option is not the same format as provided during the Spring 2020 semester. Paper packets will not be provided for remote learning at home instruction.

Please review each instructional method carefully and determine which best fits the learning needs of your student(s).
